REUNITED.

AFTER FORTY YEARS SEPARA-TION.

Frank Dodge Returns to Visit His Brother, Joshua G. Dodge, After an Absence of Forty-one years.

Frank Dodge of California arrived Saturday afternoon for a visit to his brother, Joshua G. Dodge, of 29 Russell street. The simple statement of fact expresses but a fraction of the interest attaching to the incident, for the two brothers had not seen each other at any time during the previous forty-one years. Frank Dodge went to California with the "forty niners," and remained for some years thereafter, having made his way in those early days to the Golden Gate in a sailing vessel around Cape Horn. A little more than six months were required to make the journey which is now made overland in five days. After returning in the fifties from California to New York, he became actively interested in business there; but his love for the West compelled him to go back to San Francisco again, where he has made his home since 1861.

During all these years he had not visited his brother, Joshua, until last week, when he pulled the bell at 29 Russell street, and, as Joshua appeared at the door, asked for the street and number of some imaginary name. The elder brother, not recognizing him, replied in the negative and added that he did not even recall such a name. The younger thereupon made himself known, and then came the greeting of brothers who had not met for forty odd years. The old home life under the paternal roof was reviewed and reviewed, and the marvelous changes wrought by the passing years in the entire country were discussed. In an interview, Frank Dodge said that he had gone up "High street" to look again upon the old home and its surroundings, but that he found no familiar spot there where he had spent his boyhood days. Time had made such a transformation. Mr. Dodge, whom some of the older people in town will pleasantly remember, has a son in New York city, who is an artist, and also three sons in California, all of whom are artists and one daughter, married, who lives in California. Mr.
Dodge intends to spend several weeks with his brother.

COMMENDATION.

Editor of the Enterprise: Let me congratulate you on the improvement in the appearance of your paper, and the fidelity with which you give the people the news. Although not an old resident of Arlington, you are evidently determined to identify yourself with its interests and to work for whatever means for the upbuilding of our beautiful suburb. You will doubtless receive what you deserve, the heartly and generous support of the people. Mr. Palmer, whose facile pen has given us many bright, and wise, and imagination quickening editorials, is a splendid backer, and your readers will be always glad to hear from him from mountain or sea shore, or on local questions. Be assured of the good will of every lover of Arlington's welfare.

With the hope that your subscription list may become very long and your circulation even yet larger.

I am one of your enthusiastic READERS.

ARLINGTON LOCALS.

James O. Holt returned home Monday. He went recently to North Falmouth, hoping to get relief from his rheumatism, but found that the sea air made his trouble worse.

William Stackpole and family of North Cambridge have moved into the Sherburne house on Russell terrace.

The state convention of Foresters of America held at North Adams last week had a spirited contest over the election of grand chief ranger. Officer Hooley did considerable hustling for A. J. Connelley of Boston. Mr.
Connelley was elected after several ballotings.

Miss Janet Schouler of New York city is visiting at her old home at 173 Pleasant street.

A party of young people, Henry Smith, Charles B. Hurley, Miss Florence Dodge, Miss Belle Harris, Charles A. Collins, and Miss Susie T. Hubley, goes this afternoon to camp "Azu-Li-Kit," North Billerica, to spend Sunday.

The engagement of Miss Susie T.
Hubley and Charles A. Collins is announced. Miss Hubley has been for several years a popular and efficient clerk in Hardy's bakery, which position she has but recently resigned. Mr.
Collins is employed in Holt's grocery store.

Charles Gott's dog, Duke, evidently believes in the so-called "water cure," for no sooner was he run over Monday evening by a passing team than he put for Spy pond, where he lay and swam in the water for an hour. He then returned to his master, at about 9 o'clock as though nothing had happened.

BELMONT & WAVERLEY.

BELMONT LOCALS.

This year the public schools of Belmont have departed somewhat from the usual manner of observing Memorial day. Instead, as formerly, of all the pupils assembling at the town hall on Memorial day each building held its own exercises. Thursday the members of the G. A. R. making the rounds of the buildings to take part in the exercises. The exercises held at the high school building were pleasing in the extreme. The stage was handsomely decorated with flags and masses of ferns and flowers. The high school pupils took part in the program with the grammar school scholars a thing which they have not done before. The program was as follows.

of the G. A. R. delivered a short speech in which he paid a touching tribute to the heroes of the civil war.
Tomorrow evening, Bishop Lawrence will visit the parish of All Saints. At the vesper service at 7.30 he will administer the rite of confirmation and will preach. The morning service will be at 10.30 as usual.

Attention is called to the New Engin this issue, "Savings Bank Free."

Not to the Savings Bank, though that is a useful thing, but to the International Encyclopaedia dictionary, which they furnish at a rate reasonable to all. This work has been both examined and used in daily practice, and no English dictionary published today exceeds it in (1) spelling, (2) derivation, (3) definition, and (4) explanation of words, both technical and in common use. Its encyclopaedia department is unique. On the whole, it is preferable to either the Century or the Standard.

ately decorated with flags, bunting, potted

Mrs. Giles and Mr. Broderick sang several selections, accompanied by Mrs.

WAVERLEY LOCALS.

The Waverley Baptist society should undoubtedly be congratulated upon the great success of their strawberry festival held last Wednesday evening in Waverley hall. The program consisted of vocal and instrumental music and the frequent applause testified to the appreciation of the large audience. The two gentlemen performers upon the mandolin were much enjoyed and the readings of Miss Kennedy of Watertown were repeatedly encored.

After the entertainment ice cream and strawberries were served.

Holy Ghost Hospital.

Annually, with the month of July, comes the mid-summer lawn party of the Hospital Aid society, connected with the Holy Ghost Hospital for Incurables. This year the date is Saturday, July 12, and even at this early day the plans are laid, and the arrangements are well advanced, toward making the party a huge success. It is to be held on the hospital grounds on Cambridge street.

The money derived from the event will be applied to the free-bed fund at the hospital. This object is a most worthy one, hence the undivided interest in the party. Citizens of Cambridge and vicinity are making a strong effort to place at the disposal of the Grey Nuns, who are in charge of the hospital a larger sum than ever before.

At the present time the conditions are pressing. Practically every free bed is taken, and many incurables seek admission. For this reason the Hospital Aid society is making a strong effort to bring about the most successful party ever held, and to raise a larger sum for this charitable work than has ever before been received.

A SERMON ON GOSSIP.

Rev. Mr. Allen spoke last Sunday in the Waverley Unitarian church on "Gossip." He said in part:

"There is some justification for innocent gossip. It averts mental stagnation and keeps alive a healthy public opinion. What are our newspapers but great blank sheets of gossip? The editors sift out as best they can the deluge of news that comes to them, and we too have to sift out from the newspaper's pages what really interests us. It is a primary school of education. And similarly useful is the innocent gossip that circulates in villages and towns. It keeps up a sense of fellowship with our neighbors and is often a reviving cordial.

"But it keeps us from better things; it wastes time; and our wits run into imbecility. It is like filling our stomachs with bran and sawdust, and then it almost inevitably becomes unkind and uncharitable, disguised under the cover of a zeal for public morality. If the truth is not spicy, then it must be spiced to suit, and evil stories are exaggerated or even invented. Such stories it is usually hard to discriminate from those which are honest. And therefore it is wise never to be influenced by any gossip till we can verify it. The proverb that 'where there is smoke there must be fire,' is often utterly false. Such was the scandal about Queen Victoria and her faithful attendant, John Brown, who had been Prince Albert's trusted valet, and thoroughly deserved the Queen's confidence.

"There are three remedies for gossip: (1) never listen to it, unless you can test the truth of it. Never repeat it, for once started, it will spread like thistle-tops. If we repeat what we should never tell, how can we expect that others will be more discreet? The only safety is a habit of absolute silence. (2) Have some better thing to think about. Gossip is the vice of empty and idle minds. Thoughtful people avoid it; they are too busy. Life is full of serious duties. To be fond of gossip is like trying to live on bubbles. Read books, talk about them, study nature, learn the lessons of practical wisdom, and you will not care to hear gossip. (3) Beware of judging others by mere hearsay. Judgment is God's business, not ours. Be silent about the mistakes and faults of others; we cannot half understand them, and we may entirely misunderstand them. Rather look for all the good traits that we can find and emulate these. The final words in the epitaph of Sir Walter Raleigh are instructive: 'Should you reflect on his errors, Remember his many virtues.—And that he was mortal.'"

FARM AND GARDEN.

A writer in the Tribune Farmer recommends to horticulturists to keep a sharp lookout for the plants which the birds show. For one who does this will be surprised at the number of new things he will obtain. Search carefully, he says, under the trees where the birds are wont to sit and sing. These will be large and shady trees, like weeping birches and apple trees. You will be able to dig out with a trowel not only some things brought from a distance in the seed form and dropped there to plant itself, but you will find your choice shrubs multiplied. Prepare a neat and clean propagating bed, where you can set these plants and give them a good start. In this way may be found crossbred berries, as well as shrubs.

FUCHSIAS.

One who has visited California will have seen these beautiful plants cultivated extensively and propagated to a wonderful degree of perfection. All the members of this genus of plants, except the species found in New Zealand, are natives of Central and South America, and grow in the interior of forest, or in damp and shady mountainous places.

The numerous hybrid forms now existing are chiefly produced by the inter-crossing of that or other long-flowered kinds with globose-flowered plants.

The first fuchsia with a white corolla was produced about 1853 by a Mr. Storey. Some have variegated blossoms, and others double ones, and there seems to be no limit to the numerous forms that can be obtained by selection and careful cultivation. The fuchsia is hybridized by emasculating the flower as soon as it opens, and then by fertilizing it with pollen from some different flower. Fuchsias may be grafted by the splicing or whip method, but to propagate by cuttings is an easier method.

Coarse brown sand mixed with leaf-mould is good soil for propagation. If under glass, they should be kept as near the glass as possible, but not in too strong sunlight, watered plentifully, except when repotted, then the roots should be quite dry. Soil for the second potting is suitably made by a mixture of well pulverized cow-manure, or hot-bed mould with leaf-mould and sandy peat. Weak liquid manure will greatly advance the plants if applied two or three times a week during the flowering season.

Sunapee in Storm.

Sunshine and rain; hurricane and calm, like laughter and tears, are but a breath apart at Sunapee. Couched among the New Hampshire hills under guard of its twin peaked mountain, the lake lay alternately smiling and frowning back at the frowning and smiling May skies. A sprinkle of rain was dashing down as the little twenty-ton steamer puffed away from the lake station, on the Concord and Claremont division of the Boston and Maine. But the first landing across the lake had

Children's Fertilizer.

That's a good name for Scott's Emulsion. Children are like young plants. Some will grow in ordinary soil. Others need fertilizers.

The nature of some children prevents them from thriving on ordinary food. Such children grow right if treated right.

All they need is a little fertilizer—a little extra richness. Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment.

Fertilizers make things grow. That's just what Scott's Emulsion does. It makes children grow in flesh, grow in strength, grow rich blood, grow in mind, grow happy. That's what we make it for.

scarcely been made before the clouds broke away and the sun came out to bright and warm, making a vivid bow, whose ends rested full upon the waters.

Zigzagging back and forth to the various little docks thrust out at intervals from the rocky and wooded shores, with now and then a shrill toot of the whistle by way of warning to those upon the landings, we slipped along through the still air and glassy waters. Here was a loon, paddling idly near the shore, and there, below the miniature light house was a boat with two passengers putting out from shore. All things were quiet and peaceful after the rain, and the hills to the eastward, lit up by the bright sunshine, were crowned again with the many colored arch which promises the end of storm.

But, as we turned again to the west, making for the harbor, up from behind the western mountains rose with a leap a dark, heavy edge of cloud. From beyond the peaks of Mount Sunapee to the south, along the whole horizon of the west, the curtain stretched illuminated by the red glow of the frequent lightning flash. Rumbling and muttering it came on, smiting as it passed the deep fringed frowns of Sunapee.

The steamer, out in the midst of the warm sunlight and the smooth waters, churned its way at full speed in hope of making harbor before the storm should strike. But calm and storm were but a breath apart. Smooth water stretched out ahead only half-way. The line between it and the roughness beyond was plainly discernible, as with vindictive fury the vanguard of the gale swept onward across the lake.

Almost in a moment the storm struck, and the steamer was staggering under the weight of wind and wave. The deluge of rain, mixed with the frothy spray torn up from the lake by the relentless fangs of the angry hurricane, shut out from view land and sky and all else but a score of feet of raging billows. The pilot, crowding on steam and heading up into the wind, was unable to keep his course. The steamer fell away, heeling to the blast, and turning ran before the storm to the nearest landing, there to tie up until its cessation.

Presently the wind fell, the air cleared, and in the course of a quarter hour the setting sun shone out as brightly as before. The waves, so lately tossing high, smoothed down, and we steamed across to the harbor through the peaceful evening, with scarce a trace of the vengeful fury which had just lashed the lake as with a scourge.

SEASIDE CONFERENCE.

The Sunday school workers will meet for their annual conference at Clifton, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Hartshorn, next Monday.

A year ago a most enjoyable day was passed there by a large company of prominent people. This year, with the state executive committee, the presidents and secretaries of the fifty districts, and the district secretaries of the normal, home and primary departments, are also invited.

A special train leaves North Union station at 10 a. m. The day's program will include conferences, sessions of the executive board and reports and discussions of important topics. Lunch is to be served at 12.45.

As Slow as the Train.

"Look at that bicycle," said a lady as she identified a machine in a cloak-room, and saw that it had been badly knocked about and was quite useless for riding purposes.

"Yes, ma'am, I've been looking at it," said the official.

"Why, it's all smashed to pieces!"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Well, what do you propose to do about it?"

"I'll report to the foreman, ma'am, and he'll report to the station master, the station master to the general manager, and he to the board of directors and in three or four years a solicitor will call upon you to ask you why you didn't travel with your bicycle in a properly made case. That is the way we do.—London Answers.

Village Improvement.

Whatever is the most characteristic element in the scenery of a place should stand first in the scheme of recreative open spaces. If there is a river, let there be an esplanade, a terrace, a promenade, or a drive, treated either formally or in naturalistic style, as circumstances may suggest. If there is a lake, let there be a lake-side pleasure ground. If the regions is a rolling country, let a charming valley scene be secured, with care to include some slightly point of view. If a town is spread upon the flat prairie, as so many hundreds are in the middle west, let its people not despair of opportunity to vary what may seem a hopeless monotony in environment. The prairie itself may be made the motive for a charming landscape. A spacious expanse of level verdure may be inclosed in bosky margins, like a bay with sylvan shores; on the far side of a vista may open out into the wide rural country, with horizon even, low, and remote, and as restful as the ocean in its sense of breadth and peace. If it is a factory town with water-power, then above the dam the stream will have a considerable reach of slack water that invites boating and other aquatic pleasuring. As a rule, the banks of such a piece of water can readily be cleared of the ugly intrusions that are apt to possess a neighborhood of the sort; they can easily be made to clothe themselves with vegetation, and soon resume a natural appearance. A delightful popular pleasure ground may thus be created.—Sylvester Baxter in the Century.

Fishing Through Gratings.

At Winchester it is quite a common thing to see men fishing through the street gratings, says Tit-Bits. Under the High street there flow several streams which ultimately discharge into the River Itchen, a noted trout stream; these stream receive the storm and surface water from the street by means of the ordinary street grating; the line is dropped through and fastened to the end of a stick small enough to go through the grate. When the fish is hooked the line and stick are dropped through the grating, and the fisherman rushes to the point where the stream emerges from under the street, and is there able to recover his line and land his fish.

How He Proposed.

He wished to propose to the girl of his choice, but he was nervous. First he thought of the old romantic style:

"By my halidom, fair one, I would fain take thee for my bride. Say thou wilt be mine, and ere the sun glides the turrets of yonder castle the friar shall unite us in holy bonds."

In the face of the prevalent rage for dramas of the olden style, this form seemed satisfactory. Being an eminently modern young man, however, he thought again and determined to test the theatrical mode.

But just at that moment the fair Mary tripped into the room, and he blurted out:

"Er—Mary—er—will you—er—well—"

But Mary was far from being contrary.

"Oh! that's all right, George," said she. "I know what you mean. Why, of course, I will. Papa will be delighted."—New York Herald.

TO YOUNG LADIES.

eight months from suppressed menstruation, and it effected my entire system until I became weak and debilitated, and at times felt that I had a hundred aches in as many places. I only used the Compound for a few weeks, but it wrought a change in me which I felt from the very beginning. I have been very regular since, have no pains, and find that my entire body is as if it was renewed. I highly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to everybody. Miss ELIZABETH CAINE, 69 W. New Pavement for Streets.

The perfect pavement for streets is believed to have been discovered in Paris in a material which nobody but a few experts had regarded as practicable or economical enough for use. A street has been paved with glass, and the Paris newspapers are loud in praise of the innovations, says the Chicago Journal. Everybody who heard of the plan laughed at it before it was tried. It was argued that the surface would be too slippery for use, and that it would be brittle and dangerous.

In practice the pavement is found to afford an excellent foothold, and it neither becomes dirty nor absorbs filth. The surface of the pavement is dull. All kinds of glass debris are used in its manufacture, and the cost is low. The inventor of the process expects to become rich, as other cities are watching the experiment with the idea possibly of adopting the same material themselves.

The Mark of the Librarian.

In olden times the profession of a man was proclaimed by the insignia he wore. That custom has long been abandoned, and in our day a general cannot be distinguished from an apothecary, save by his bearing. An exception must be noted, however, in the case of the librarian of congress, Mr. Putnam, who, like his predecessor, Mr. Spofford, carries a green baize bag to and from his office, not for the purpose of announcing his occupation, but to facilitate the transportation of his papers. The custom is such a practical and sensible one that nearly all of his employees have followed their chief's example, and a voluminous green bag has come to be regarded as the insignia of the staff of the library of congress.—Washington Post.

In Indian Homes.

The young Indian wife of today is clean, a fairly good cook and tidy with her house. She is not yet well versed in the art of decoration, and red and green are predominating colors in all of her rooms, whether in harmony or not. Her house has good furniture, but it is strangely arranged. The lounge is a favorite piece of furniture, and one sees it in every Indian household, always in the parlor. If the Indians have a piano or organ it goes into the bedroom. The young buck's best saddle also goes into the parlor, and in many houses it is hung upon the wall. Red ribbons are tied to everything, even the tail of the cat, for no Indian household is complete without a cat and a dog.

Anything to Abony.

Ferdinand de Lesseps was fond of telling a story how he once received a letter from a Frenchman in some out-of-the-way part of the world inclosing an application for shares in his tunnel through Sweden, says the Chicago News. He declined to accept the money accompanying the application on the ground that his company was not making a tunnel, but a canal, and that the scene of their operations was not Sweden but Egypt. In reply his correspondent wrote to say his application held good, as it was a matter of absolute indifference to him what the project was or where it was located, "provided it annoys the English."

Literature by the Pound.

The fashion is to sell books by the volume, or set of volumes, but to advertise them by the pound. "This set weighs 345 pounds" and contains thus and so, or "over 3456 pages, weighing 134 pounds," etc. On Sunday last, a meek enough day for newspapers, I weighed the several morning papers left at my door by Salathiel Witt, with the following results: Herald, 1 1/4 pounds; World, 1 1/8; Journal, 1 Sun, 5/8 of a pound; Press, 5/8; Times, 1/2; News, 1/2; Telegraph, 5/8. Total, 6 pounds. There have been Sundays when these eight papers weighed 15 pounds.—New York Press.

BELMONT & WAVERLEY.

BELMONT LOCALS.

Rev. Bradley Gilman of Springfield, who has been prominent among the speakers at the Unitarian anniversary meetings this week, was formerly pastor of the Unitarian parish of Belmont and Waverley.

The Misses Evelyn and Cora Locke sailed recently for a trip abroad.

The Misses Lillian and Helen Richardson have arranged to go abroad with their aunt, Mrs. Sturtevant, next fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Howell Reed will spend the summer at Belmont.

Mrs. Thomas B. Brown contemplates moving to Philadelphia, her former home.

At the conference recently held in the office of Mayor McNamee of Cambridge, for the discussion of the condition of the marsh lands between Fresh pond and the Mystic river, representatives were present from the city of Cambridge, and the towns of Belmont, Somerville and Arlington. William L. Underwood of Belmont showed several stereopticon views, exhibiting the unsanitary condition of the marshes. Thomas W. Davis was among the other speakers. A committee to investigate plans was appointed, consisting of Mayor McNamee, Mayor Gilman of Somerville, E. S. Farmer of the board of selectmen of Arlington, Thomas W. Davis of the selectmen of Belmont, the chairman of the boards of health, and the city and town engineers. This question is one which, although not at all new to the townspeople of Belmont, is proper to be agitated at this time.

WAVERLEY LOCALS.

Mme. Aimee Beugnot lectured in Room 50, Pierce building, Saturday afternoon, on the Louvre, and gave a detailed sketch of its early history. Mme. Beugnot lived in Waverley during a number of years with her son, Louis, and her friends here are much pleased with her delightful talks on French customs and art.

Miss Elizabeth Brown is visiting at the home of Mrs. Clark on Sycamore street.

Mrs. A. B. Cheney and Miss Susie Smith of North Pembroke have been visiting their Waverley friends this week.

A fine assortment of views of the town is on exhibition in the windows of Crocker's pharmacy.

Miss Sweetser left town Tuesday for the summer months.

Charles H. Houlihan has been appointed a justice of the peace.

The Young People's Religious union held a meeting in the vestry of the Unitarian church Sunday evening. The subject was "Rev. Andrew P. Peabody," introduced by Gilbert Burdakin. Miss Fannie Stearns led the service. Misses Stearns, Morrison and Roscoe were appointed delegates to attend the national conference of the Y. P. R. U. in Boston, Wednesday.

Miss Blanche Minot spent last Saturday and Sunday with Melrose friends.

A QUERY ANSWERED.

Editor of the Enterprise:—

In your last week's issue the question is raised as to why Sir Isaac Newton should have the credit of discovering the law of gravitation in 1685, when Shakespeare in 1609 spoke of the "Very center of the earth Drawing all things to it."

Had Newton discovered gravity, or even gravitation, then Shakespeare might receive the palm; but men had always seen and known that everything is held down by a force of some sort, and had recognized from the earliest times that bodies possess the property called weight, and that bodies unsupported are drawn to the earth. What Newton did discover, and Shakespeare did not know, was the universality of gravitation, and the law of its action between all bodies; upon all objects on the earth's surface; upon the moon revolving around the earth; and upon the planets revolving around the sun, which is the greatest discovery in the history of astronomy. The Newtonian law of gravitation briefly stated is: The stress between two bodies is proportional to the product of their masses, and varies inversely as the square of the distance between them. And this we must ascribe to Newton, because to him alone it belongs.

THE CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

A revival of the drama "The Two Orphans" will make the coming week's attraction at the Castle Square theatre, and the intense interest created in this play when it was given at this theatre last January seems to be an assurance of the success of this revival. The changes in the company, by reorganization for the summer season, will bring a number of new people into the cast and afford opportunities for interesting comparisons. The elaborate stage settings used in last January's production of this play will again be shown.

Following "The Two Orphans," Monday, June 9, comes a production of "The Iron Master." The usual distribution of boxes of chocolate bonbons will be made at the Monday matinee.

ARLINGTON DIRECTORY, 1902.

The canvass is being made for a directory to be issued in September. It is to be a blue book and business directory as heretofore.

The blue book part gives the ladies as well as the men and will print "At home" day, summer residence and telephone numbers for subscribers.

The book will be bound in cloth and contain a map of Arlington and Belmont, corrected to date.

The leading merchants are quick to encourage a good institution and take considerable pride in their directory. The publisher reciprocates by issuing the best book he can produce in the mechanical part of it, as well as in its compilation.

E. A. Jones, publisher, 59 Rindge Ave., North Cambridge.

BENEVOLENT CAMBRIDGE.

It would seem from the following that Cambridge is bound to claim and to care for all the abandoned babies it can find. At any rate, a baby was found last Saturday morning by a Cambridge ice-man on the sidewalk near Teel street, opposite the old Whittier place. It was lying upon a heap of rags. The ice-man, warm-hearted in spite of his frosty business, felt that something should be done, and that quickly. Looking anxiously about for help, he fortunately sighted a Cambridge policeman steering in his direction and hailed him to his relief. The officer at once crossed over the Arlington line, picked up the child, and carried it off to the Cambridge rhinoceros. Wherefore, Arlington and her police force hold themselves exceedingly grateful to Cambridge.

A Kindly Act.

A leaky spigot, a big dog and a tramp taught the passing throng on F street the other morning a little lesson in humanity. The big dog had had on no collar. He, like the tramp, was battling for a simple existence. He had come to the spigot for a drink. Just enough water leaked from it into the cash basin beneath to whet his appetite without gratifying it. His eye would follow a drop with lightning rapidity down through the grated basin. He would then look up at the spigot most wistfully. Of the passing crowds there was none who noticed him until a "knight of the road," with a tightly rolled blanket flung over his shoulder, slouched past the corner of 13th and F streets. Before he had crossed the street he saw the dog and interpreted at once his sly appeal. He went straight to the spigot and turned the water on full force, holding it until the dog's thirst had been quenched. The two tramps then sauntered off in different directions.—Washington Star.

—POOL—

There is no more exhilarating pastime to the man who uses his brain excessively than that of pool playing. It furnishes a radical change from the routine of constant thinking in regular channels for it brings into use a diversity of thoughts entirely foreign thereto and therefore recreative in character. Besides, it affords much wholesome physical exercise otherwise. Our pool-room at No. 491 Mass. Ave., Arlington, is a retreat for those who would, for a brief time, drive dull care away. It is kept in the most orderly manner and we solicit the patronage of gentlemen. We have no room for idlers or loungers of a social caste who can not mingle with gentlemen.

It is this getting off at the left which brings us face to face with opposing forces. Yet the most of us purposely step down and out at the left, and so go bumping through the world, constantly running into each other's way. "Off at the right," if you wish to keep your feet and have your onward way unimpeded.

President Roosevelt is desirous of attending the approaching commencement at Harvard as a graduate of the class of 1880 and not as president of the United States. In this he shows his usual good sense. It is said that whenever he finds a merchant or marketman in Washington advertising the fact the president buys of him, he at once goes elsewhere to make his purchases. The truth is that Theodore Roosevelt is a democrat in the true and primary signification of the term. He is one of the people, and no official honor, whatever it may be, can make him otherwise.

TIMELY INSTRUCTION.

Complaints have more or less frequently been made, and justly, too, that much of the instruction given in the public schools is not timely and is but ill adapted to the demands of the hour. This complaint, we are sure, cannot be made reasonably of the Arlington schools. With not a little curiosity to learn the facts, we called recently upon Superintendent Sutcliffe at his office and asked him whether he could tell us how many of his pupils in the eighth grade had any approximate idea of the situation and area of Martinique and Cuba. His answer was "No," but he added, "We'll go right up and see." All unheeded, we made our appearance before the eighth grade boys and girls, while Mr. Sutcliffe put the desired question. It was found that a large majority of them have a very accurate knowledge of the area and situation of both Cuba and Martinique. Many of them were well informed as to Cuba and its form of government. All this confirmed our previous opinion of the excellence of the system of instruction in our schools. We have good right to feel proud of them all the way from the primary to the high school. Still, there are improvements yet to be made, and it is with these in view that the superintendent and his teachers are working. In the first place, an earnest and constant effort is being made that no teacher shall have more than thirty pupils under his or her instruction, giving more ample opportunity for reaching the scholars individually. The difficulty has been heretofore, and too largely is now, that teachers have been overburdened with numbers, being compelled to teach in the aggregate. From this comes the complaint of overwork and that nervousness of both mind and body which makes things so uncomfortable frequently not only in school but at home as well. The school committee, superintendent, and teachers recognize the above fact, and are working judiciously to better this phase of school life. Our schools are on the right road; they need only to lengthen distances and to make the way in groups so small that the driver can see at all times just where he is going.

Old Home Week.

The historical society and its president, G. Y. Wellington, are ready to back any movement the town may make with regard to Old Home week. President Wellington will call a meeting early in June to take measures for the celebration.

Some of the former teachers and pupils are planning to hold a reunion during the week in the vicinity of the grounds of the old High street grammar school. There will be a social time, and it is hoped that Hon. W. E. Parmenter, formerly chairman of the school committee for many years, will be present. All old teachers and pupils of this school are invited to attend, and those interested are requested to write to Wilson Palmer, Box 206, Arlington.

Bogus curios are made by ingenious persons for the purpose of being sold by workmen engaged in excavating. Many such made their appearance when the Thames embankment was made, and for a time puzzled the experts.—The Connoisseur.

in its work, but rather to uphold and strengthen it and keep it from falling. He also said the true patriot will protest against all wars which are not absolutely necessary and will protest against the modern civilization which makes it allowable to kill people in order to give them the benefits of the railroad, the brick schoolhouse and the automobile.

CAUGHT AT LAST.

AFTER LONG AND PATIENT SEARCH.

John Morandus, Alias William Brown, Held for Superior Court Under Suspicion of Larceny.

It will be remembered by Lexington people that Munroe's station was broken into April 20, and $2800 worth of tickets, books, etc., was stolen. Since then Officer Foster has been working on the case and, the 22d of April, one of the tickets was found in a pawn broker's shop in Boston. A boy was also found who had been given some tickets to sell. The police have been following up this clue.

Last Saturday Chief Franks was notified by the Boston police that they had a man. He and Officer Foster, therefore, went in and brought him out.

The man gave his name to the Boston police as John Morandus; to the Lexington police he said he was William Brown.

He gives no information about himself, says that he came from New York, that he was born in New York, that he has no home anywhere, and that he is 19 years old, when he must be about 30. When arrested in Boston he had tickets taken from the station in Reading, which was broken into May 6.

He was kept in jail here until Monday morning. He spent all the time while here in trying to get out. He was first placed in a cell with a steel ceiling, which he managed to loosen; then he was put into another cell, the lock out of which he would in time have removed by loosening the bricks around it. He was under continual surveillance by the police. It was found when he was in court Monday that he had a twenty penny nail, though how he could possibly have concealed it when he was searched is a mystery.

He was taken to court Monday and bound over to the superior court, which sits the first Monday in June, under bonds of $1000.

At that session he will be indicted for the break here and also the one at Reading.

Public Rehearsal.

The Verdi Orchestral club gave a public rehearsal in Kindergarten hall, Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock. The orchestra showed itself still more conclusively to be a capable organization. Probably in time, after they have had a sufficient number of rehearsals, they will begin to play some of the easier symphonies and a more elevated class of musical literature. At least, there seems to be no good reason why such music cannot be performed by the orchestra as far as technique goes. It will be seen from the program that the tone of it was decidedly "popular." The interpretation was satisfactory throughout, except "La Cinqtaine," which was rendered in a rather unusual manner. The contralto solo by Mrs. Marshall was greatly appreciated, and her encore was even more charmingly sung. The program:

- Part I.
1 March. "Our Director." Bigelow
2 Overture. "Poet and Peasant." Suppe
3 "La Cinqtaine." Marie
4 "Gondellied." Gruenwald
5 "The Village Belle." Schall
6 Grand Selection. "The Little Duchess." DeKoven Part II.
6 Overture. Lustspiel. Kela Bela
7 Moon Moths. (a) Andante, (b) Moderato, (c) Andante.
8 Contralto Solo. "Spring Flowers." Reinecke 9 Concert Waltz. "Mello." Mrs. Marshall.
(Violin Obligato by Mr. Marshall.)
10 Medley Overture. Popular Waldteufel
Airs.

Following is a list of the members: William Marshall of Arlington, conductor and first violin; first violin, Mr. Tinkham, Arlington Heights; two second violins, Viola E. D. Sherburne; cello, Rev. C. F. Carter; bass, Mr. Newell; clarinets, Mr. Gleason of Bedford and C. C. Goodwin; flute, cornet, Mr. Foster, Arlington; horns, Messrs. Buck; trombone, John Moakley; piano, Mr. Russell, Arlington.

Resigns.

DROWNED.

SAD ENDING OF EVENING'S SPORT

Nathan W. Messom Finds Death in East Lexington Meadows—Epileptic Attack the Cause.

Nathan W. Messom was drowned last week Friday evening in the East Lexington meadows. Messom and his brother, Harry, went out fishing after supper at about 7 o'clock. Naturally they separated while they were pursuing their sport and Harry went a considerable distance beyond his brother. In about an hour he returned to where he had left Nathan and found him lying face down in a shallow pool, dead.

Messom was subject to epileptic fits, and it is supposed that while bending over he had an attack and plunged into the water. As he was unable to help himself and fell on his face, he was drowned, although the water was not deep enough to cover his body. The brother notified Howard M. Munroe and word was sent to C. T. West and to Chief Franks.

Medical Examiner Blake of Woburn was summoned. The burial took place Sunday in Lexington.

SCHOOL EXERCISES.

Memorial Day Observed Fittingly.

The usual memorial exercises took place in the schools, Thursday, and they were very interesting. In the high school, at 9.45, the exercises were simple, but impressive. Captain Kauffman spoke and there was singing by the school. Lincoln's Gettysburg address was given by Roland Armes.

The exercises in the Hancock school were more elaborate. Four members of the Grand Army post were present, Commander Gurney, E. S. Locke, Geo. H. Cutter and Major Muzzey, and were escorted by the color guard. Messrs. Gurney and Cutter made speeches. The program is below. Part I began at 1.30, Part II at 2.30:

Miss Gertrude Keniston and Mr. William Lynch were married at Cambridge, Wednesday evening. The reception was given at Mr. Warren Keniston's, a brother of the bride, in Lexington. The bride was charmingly gowned in white organdie. The presents were numerous and valuable. Mr. and Mrs. Lynch will make their home in Cambridge.

The East Lexington Baptist society will hold an open air meeting tomorrow afternoon at four o'clock on their grounds near Curve street, if the weather be pleasant. Should the weather be unfavorable, the meeting will be held in Village hall. All Grand Army members are especially invited to attend, and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to be present at the meeting which will be addressed by A. T. Eddy of Boston.

C. D. Easton will also speak at this meeting.

Baptist Church.

Preceding the morning service tomorrow, the ordinance of baptism will be administered.

The sermon will be on the "Medium of the Christian Life."

Following the sermon the hand of fellowship will be given, and Lord's Supper will be observed.

In the evening it is expected that Mr. W. H. Millard, a volunteer for the foreign mission field, who is studying at Newton Theological institution, will give an account of the great student volunteer convention, recently held at Toronto.

The P. A. R. memorial service was largely attended, and honored by the presence of the George S. Mead post in full. The program, as announced last week, was followed out and the Rev. F. A. McDonald preached from Psalm xxxiii, 12, on the theme, "Religion the Basis of True Citizenship." After welcoming the post, Mr. McDonald proceeded to unfold the theme by the use of three propositions: First, historically; our citizenship is based on religion; second, the principles of true citizenship, and religion are identified; third, religion discovers the true purpose of citizenship.

Patriotic songs were sung, and Miss Austin rendered, acceptably, Kipling's "Recessional."

LEXINGTON LOCALS.

Under the auspices of the Woman's Relief corps there were lectures on "Cooking," Monday and Tuesday afternoons, in Cary hall. The lectures were incidentally an exhibition of shredded wheat biscuit, which is put up by the Natural Food Co., of Niagara Falls. The lectures were very interesting and instructive, and it was surprising to see in how many different ways shredded wheat can be used to advantage. The lectures were well attended.

Rev. C. F. Carter gave the Memorial day address at Billerica.

Plans are maturing for the high school graduation exercises, June 18. There will be an informal dance this evening at the Old Belfry club, under the auspices of the gymnasium seniors. Tickets on sale at door—35 cents.

Do You Know

How lots of good money GOES WRONG? Do you know how the gold-brick man, the church deacon, the pipe-dreamer, whether by accident, accident or design, gets hold of the hard-earned money of the widow or the orphan—YOUR GOOD INSURANCE MONEY, for example.

DO YOU KNOW that you can tie it up so that those who live after you, for whom you have worked, toiled, and schemed, can have an annual income of FIVE PER CENT on the original insurance as long as they live? Is this not a wise proposition? The Equitable Life have such a policy, and I have it for sale. come in and let me show it to you.

THE ENTERPRISE IS FOR SALE BY LEXINGTON BY:

H. V. Smith, Lexington.
A. Austin, P. O. East Lexington.
L. Burrill, P. O. North Lexington.

A forty page booklet, well illustrated, has been received from the New Brunswick Tourist association. It contains maps and other information useful for the traveler. We note that copies can be secured free upon application to Charles D. Shaw, secretary, St. John, N. B.

Oyster Bay, New York, is erecting new public buildings, and improving old ones, laying out her private grounds, and keeping them in shape, and the Long Island railroad has just completed for the town one of the finest depots on the island. All this is being done largely for the reason that President Roosevelt has his home there. But strange and contradictory as it may seem, the school board of Oyster Bay at its last meeting reduced the salary of the principal of its high school by two hundred dollars, in spite of the fact that the president of the United States is a citizen of the town. It is generally true that the public schools are the first to suffer for economy's sake. All this is just as it shouldn't be. Those institutions where presidents are made oughtn't to suffer by a reduction of salary.

WHY DO WE BOAST?

Why do we so continually boast of the civilization Christian influences pervading this country, when a negro can be caught and burned alive for an infraction of the law, as was done recently in Texas? The disgraceful scene at Lansing, when the negro was put to death by the slow burning fagot, was a blot upon all civilization. Would it not be the better and wiser plan for our churches, instead of wrangling over the creed, to send teachers and missionaries with the spelling book and the Bible to a people who have yet to learn their first lessons in all that is decent and humane?

GRADUATION EXERCISES.

It is a hopeful sign that in so many localities school officials are not only giving wholesome advice, but are taking sensible action in regard to what has been, and is now, to a large extent, a worse than useless expense attaching to the graduation exercises from the public schools. We call vividly to mind a poor, tired mother, who said to us a year ago that she was completely worn out in making ready her two girls for their graduation. There were dresses to be purchased and made, and all this, too, be it remembered, at no little expenditure of time and money.

In a western city it has been voted by the school board that the class graduating from the high school shall not expend per member over five dollars in making ready for the graduation exercises. This is a wise regulation, which will relieve many a poor family. Now let our New England schools follow so timely an example.

THE MORNING CONCERT.

One morning recently we had the pleasure of listening to the four o'clock concert of the birds. We were promptly in our seats when the first sweet notes of the songsters of the air were rendered. Why is it that so many of us miss these matin songs? The morning is the most beautiful part of the day. Who knows it? Comparatively few are up at sunrise. "A little more sleep, a little more slumber, a little more folding of the hands to sleep," is the way Solomon puts it.

An officer of the night police force said to us a day or two ago that he was reluctant to leave his beat in the early morning because of the myriad voices in the air. An appreciation of the beauties of nature should be cultivated by all.

The morning to which reference has been made, we were up and out in the fresh air just as the break-of-day was proclaimed by the streamers in the east. To watch the gradual approach of dawn is inspirational; then, if ever, will one break forth into song. No wonder that Daniel exclaimed "Lift up your heads, O ye gates, and be ye lifted up, ye everlasting doors, and the King of Glory shall come in." "Brightest and best of the songs of the morning, Dawn on our darkness, and lend us thine aid."

Oh, these mornings! "Don't miss them. With charm of earliest birds," one is sure to have his day set to the harmony of both earth and sky.

IT DOES MATTER.

It does matter what you do and how you do it. The notion that one may do whatever falls in his way is a false one and without foundation. To succeed in business or professional life, one must find that employment for which he is fitted both by nature and by culture. Holmes once said that "round men get into the square holes, and that square men into the round holes," making confusion and failure on every side.

In the newspaper world, more frequently than elsewhere, one finds these misfits, who, unlettered and not specially adapted to such work, think that running a newspaper is an easy way of earning a living. The fundamental mistake made by such is in underestimating the average intelligence of the people; and another, of equal importance, is that news and gossip are confounded. Any newspaper, to succeed, must have connected with it that ability which leads and instructs. The average man is not willing long to pay his money each year for what he may learn in any corner; grocery stores free of cost. The successful journalists will not only have something to say, but also the courage to say it. Too many are lacking both in ideas and in courage. It is no wonder that newspapers "are not taken out of the wrapper."

In the other departments of business and professional life, too, one finds the same kinds of shams. Find out what you are fitted to do, and then stick to it. Don't have more than one iron in the fire at one time, and then don't forget to strike that one iron while it is hot. It does matter what you do and how you do it.

LEXINGTON LOCALS.

Carpenter in Europe.
Frank G. Carpenter, whose letters in the Sunday Globe from all over the world have been so popular with the New England reading public will begin a new series in next Sunday's Globe from European countries. He will tell the plain but astounding facts of the invasion of Europe by American industries, investigate the labor, the homes and the schools of the European peoples. This series begins next Sunday.

The Boston Globe, daily and Sunday, has become indispensable to families, not only because it contains all the news all the time, but because it also contains numerous departments especially designed to please every member of the family. There is no question of family importance that you cannot get answered through the housekeepers' department.

The daily Globe has an instalment of a serial story, a complete story, one of the best poems in the English language, problems in arithmetic and higher mathematics, a lesson in history and a picture puzzle every day.

The above are a few of the reasons why so many say, "I cannot get along without the Globe."

Ladies' Day Meeting.

The Andover and Woburn associations will hold a ladies' day meeting next Tuesday in the Hancock church, by invitation of Rev. C. F. Carter. A cordial welcome will be given to ladies. The program:

Moderator, Frederick H. Page of Lawrence.

10.30 a. m., "The Inspiration for the Pulpit from Literature." William E. Wolcott of Lawrence. Discussion.
11.30 a. m., "The Pulpit and Social Reform." William J. Batt of Concord. Discussion.

2 p. m., "Strong Points in Four Great American Preachers—Beecher, Storrs, Brooks, Moody." E. Victor Bigelow of Lowell. Discussion.
3 p. m., "The Pulpit of the Future." Henry H. French of Malden. Discussion.

In addition to the above program, Rev. C. F. Carter will give a brief talk on places of historic interest, and conduct the party to them.

Hannah Geary.

Hannah Geary died at her home on Columbus street last Saturday, aged 52. The burial took place Monday in Holy Cross cemetery at Malden. Fr. Kavanagh conducted the services here. Schmidt's requiem mass was sung by the choir. At the close, Miss Agnes Connors sang "Nearer My God to Thee."

A Good Investment.

Few people can afford to keep poultry for fun. How to make a profit from the business can best be learned from those who know. "Farm Poultry" is an authority in the matter because it is backed by men experienced in poultry-raising. Sample copies of this journal can be obtained by application to I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston.

Golf Club.

The qualifying round for the spring club championship began yesterday.

Miss Emily Lockwood entered in the invitation tournament of the Braeburn Golf club Thursday.

A powerful fan, forty-eight inches in diameter, displacing 30,000 cubic feet of air a minute, and electrically driven, has been placed in the "tupenny tube" tunnels in London to improve the ventilation.

An innovation in mining lamps has been introduced at the Pennsylvania colliery at Mount Carmel. A number of portable electric lights have been placed in the interior of the mines. The lamps are about ten inches high and are run by a storage battery. These lamps are to be used on the turn-outs at the bottom of the slopes, in the pump houses and as lights for the lead mules of the inside teams.

The greatest oil-spouter of the Russian petroleum district was struck a few months ago, about three miles southwest of Baku. The well was bored to a depth of 1800 feet before oil was reached. Then, for nearly three days, it sent out oil at the rate of 180,000 barrels a day, and continued thereafter to flow at a diminishing rate until it had produced over 2,000,000 barrels. The owners lost money, for the well could not be controlled, much adjacent property being damaged by the oil that escaped.

The use of alcohol as a fuel is a subject that is attracting much study and attention in Europe, especially in France, where the annual production is enormous. The French Minister of Agriculture has offered prizes for mechanical inventions in which this kind of fuel may be used. Among the machines that inventors are asked to furnish are stationary motors to be used on farms, motors for pumps, and automobiles, and apparatus for lighting and heating purposes. Alcohol is already the chief illuminant for parks and other public places in Germany.

The island of Samar resembles a miniature Africa, with dense jungles occupying the central portion. So impassable is this dense forest jungle that the natives have hardly, if ever, attempted to traverse it. The American Army engineers, however, have recently completed a map on which six possible trails across the island have been sketched. These routes were surveyed by Lieutenant W. S. Martin. The accomplishment of Major Waller, of the Marine Corps, in crossing the southwestern section of the island is a minor achievement compared to the exploration work previously carried out in the interior of the island.

A writer in one of the scientific papers explains the origin of the hailstone, which he calls the most remarkable formation of the upper air. Rain drops, snow crystals, for particles and hailstones are all the result of the condensation of watery vapor on the invisible atoms of dust that float in the upper atmosphere. Such an atom, with a little moisture condensed about it, is the germ of an icy mass that may grow to be large enough to strike a man down. At first it is caught by a current of air and carried to the level of the high cirrus clouds, some of which are from five to ten miles above the earth. Then continually growing by fresh accessions of moisture, it begins its long plunge to the earth, spinning through the clouds and flashing in the sunlight like a jewel shot from a rainbow.

England's Hired Levies in 1854.

This is the third year of the war, and the reinforcements of 21,000 British soldiers, not to mention contingents of colonial born, are about to be despatched to the front, contrasts pleasantly with the sorry remedy to which the Crimean war drove England. For after sending out the first army of 30,000 men under Lord Raglan, the government declared that no more British warriors were available, and appealed to Parliament for authority to enlist 15,000 foreigners to fight the Russians. This was in November, 1854, within three months of the war's commencement. Despite some opposition the bill became acts 18 and 19 Vic., c. 2, and recruiting agents were despatched over Europe to enlist men, as remount officers are now searching the world for horseflesh, for the British army.—London Chronicle.

Very Cheap Publishing.

One of the greatest publishing businesses in the world is run by a missionary society of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, and managed at a cost that is almost infinitesimal compared with the work done. Last year the Presbyterian Board issued from its presses in China, Persia, Syria, Mexico, Siam and Taos more than 96,000,000 pages of printed matter at a cost to the board of only $6500, that is, only seven-one-hundred-thousandths of a cent a page. From its Beirut press the board has issued 675,000,000 pages of religious matter, principally in Arabic.

Interesting Inscriptions.

In the historical subterranean prison of Tiberius, in Capri, some inscriptions have been discovered which prove that this was the prison of Commodus's wife and sister, a fact which increases the interest in this already famous prison.

Feminine Fair Mindedness.

Some women are so fair minded that when they know they were in the wrong they will accept an apology from you for it.—New York Press.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS LOCALS.

The graduating exercises at Elmhurst will take place next Thursday, between 10 and 11. There will be addresses by Nixon, Waterman and William P. McKenzie. It is probable that this will be the last graduation at the Heights, as Miss Vanderveer intends to remove to Boston another season. Miss Vanderveer regrets leaving the Heights where she has had such marked success for the five years she has been here, but the necessities of the school compel the change.

Park Avenue Church.

The subject of Rev. John G. Taylor's sermon Sunday morning was, "God as Love."

An interesting session of the Sunday school was followed in the evening by a most attractive missionary meeting of the Endeavor society, led by Miss Alice White.

Suffolk North Association.

An interesting meeting of the Suffolk North association was held with the pastor of Park Avenue church, Tuesday afternoon, in the parlor of the church.

Twenty-two ministers were present. Rev. R. A. Beard of Cambridge, served as moderator. Rev. John G. Taylor is the scribe, who has much to do in arranging for the meeting of the association.

A committee to select topics for next year's work was appointed, consisting of Prof. James H. Ropes, Revs. W. S. Thompson and G. W. Brooks.

Also a committee on credentials, composed of Revs. S. C. Bushnell, M. C. Ayers and S. M. Catcart.

Rev. G. W. Brooks read a carefully prepared and finely expressed paper on, "Is Religion Without a Metaphysical Capable of Meeting the Needs of Men of Today?"

The whole subject of the rationality of the universe was considered, and the influence upon theologic thought of a conception of the universe as a whole. Mr. Brooks is a born philosopher and led into deep waters with the sure step of a master.

Prof. James Hardy Ropes of Harvard Divinity school followed with an exhaustive and quickening review of Harnack's great book on "What is Christianity?" For three hours the clergy present revelled in the discussion of high themes remote from the din of common things, but the fundamentals upon which the universe rests.

An excellent and bountiful lunch followed which was prepared by the young ladies of the church.

After lunch Rev. R. W. Wallace made a report of the state associates recently held in Plymouth.

Rev. Daniel Evans moved a vote of thanks to the pastor and the ladies of the church for generous hospitality, to which the pastor of the church made a felicitous reply.

Baptist Church.

Rev. G. W. Fuller preached last Sunday, at both services. Rev. William Lannin will preach tomorrow. "Cuba" was the subject of the Endeavor meeting last Sunday night. Mrs. Ira G. Burt was leader.

School Exercises.

The memorial exercises in the Russell, Cutter, Locke and Crosby grammar schools, Thursday afternoon, were held in accordance with the announcement made in the Enterprise last week. Superintendent Sutcliffe's words were timely and befitting the occasion. The singing in all the schools told of Memorial day and of the fallen brave.

Patriotic selections were recited by pupils, and representatives from the Grand Army made addresses, reviewing that terrible struggle, through which the Republic had a new birth.

Bret Harte, who died at the age of sixty-three, probably exerted a greater influence on English literature than any other American author, thinks the London Spectator.

M. De Witte, Secretary of the Russian Imperial Treasury, is one of the very few Russians who has risen from its down-trodden peasantry. Such a feat, in that country, is almost marvelous.

Lord Kelvin has returned to England more impressed than ever with the greatness of the American people and the magnitude of their industrial and political future. He is enthusiastic on the subject of an Anglo-American alliance.

Former Secretary of the Navy John D. Long says that for the first time in forty years he is enjoying himself and taking a real vacation. He is at his home in Hingham, Mass., and will not resume the active duties of his profession until the fall.

BELMONT LOCALS.

A CLOSE FINISH AT BOWLING.

Monday evening was an exciting one at the alleys of the Belmont club, when the two leading candle pin teams rolled the last and deciding "strings" for the championship. The scores have run close throughout the tournaments, and in fact, the Waverley team, as Capt. Delaney's is called, appeared to be the strongest. The winning of two out of three Monday evening, however, gave the championship to Capt. Cutter's Belmont team, each of whom will be presented with an individual silver cup.

The following gentlemen were chosen as parish committee: Edwin F. Atkins, J. Henry Fletcher, Loring Underwood, Isaac H. Locke and Charles W. Sherman. Andrew F. Reed was elected treasurer, and Harry H. Baldwin, clerk.

The committee appointed at the previous meeting to confer with George Hale Reed in regard to arranging with him to become the pastor, reported that he had accepted the call, and is to begin his duties in September.

Herman Long is receiving praise on all sides for his grand fielding these days.

Boston has released Fred Brown, the ex-college pitcher and general player.

Second Baseman Keeley and Pitcher Butcher have been released by New London.

The National League umpires have been instructed to enforce the balk rule strictly.

Bemis, the Marlboro boy, who is catching for Cleveland, is putting up a great game.

McAllister is the finest all-round player in the business with the exception of Lajole.

The veteran Jimmy Ryan is playing as good ball now as he ever played in his long career.

Vie Willis says the meanest pitcher's box in the League is at the Boston National grounds.

Pratt, the Indian pitcher, formerly of Carlisle, has been released by Manager Gear, of Kansas City.

Christy Mathewson, the Bucknell College man, has not been pitching up to his last year's form for New York.

It is said that Princeton's crack pitcher, Hildebrand, will be found with New York after the college term ends.

The American League is providing one of the prettiest races in the history of the game. Three teams are tied for the lead, and two are within easy striking distance.

The National League clubs have been cutting down their teams to the legal limit of sixteen men, the rule to that effect, which went into force last season, not having been abrogated.

The oil for the night must be bought in the day.
